METEORIC career of Thomas Edmund Dewey, 42, the New York lawyer who became famous as a racket buster prior to being elected governor of New York, reached its near climax Wednesday at the Republican convention in Chicago when he won unanimous nomination for president. A native of Owosso, Mich., Dewey was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1923 and received his law degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1926 and to the New York bar in 1929. He married Frances E. Huff in June, 1928. The Deweys have two children, Thomas E. and John Martin.

Dewey Flying To Chicago To Make Acceptance Talk At Convention

CHICAGO, June 28 — John W. Bricker, of Ohio, this afternoon was the unanimous choice of the Republican convention for the vice presidency.

CHICAGO, June 28 — Governor Thomas E. Dewey was nominated for president today by the 23rd Republican National convention. Dewey won the nomination on the first ballot. The convention had to ballot according to its rule although only Dewey's name had been submitted.

Dewey went over the necessary majority when Nevada gave him its six votes. His total then was 523.

CHICAGO, June 28 — Governor John W. Bricker, of Ohio, today withdrew as a candidate for the Republican nomination for president paving the way for unanimous choice of Governor Thomas E. Dewey as the 1944 standard bearer of the G. O. P. Governor Bricker was slated for the vice presidency.

Immediately following the brief talk of Governor Bricker the name of Lieut. Com. Harold Stassen, of Minnesota, also was withdrawn.

The convention floor was a seething mass of shouting humanity for 15 minutes after the name of Dewey was offered in nomination. Governor Bricker then appeared on the platform and almost instantly Bricker banners were broken out in all parts of the hall. It was the first indication that the Ohio governor was about to withdraw from the race and throw his support behind Governor Dewey. Delegates realized that he had gone to the platform to second the nomination of Dewey. The demonstration rose to new heights and continued for another 15 minutes before Chairman Martin was able to restore order. Governor Bricker made several attempts to start his talk, but each time as his words fell on the gathering cheering broke out again.

Governor Bricker said that for six months he has toured America and knows the "longing and determination of the people of America to preserve free government and liberty." He called attention to the fact that everywhere old line Democrats as flocking to the Republican standard.

"I am personally more interested in defeating the New Deal which has swept free government from minds around the world than I am in being president of the United States," the Ohioan declared. He said that it is the first duty of every patriotic American citizen to do all in his power for speedy victory and to bring home as soon as possible the American boys in uniform. "I would not be here today to plead the cause of the Republican party," he declared, "if I did not believe that in the election of a Republican president and Republican congress next Fall that the best interests of the civilized world would be served."

Governor Bricker then released the Ohio delegation and asked that it cast its vote for Dewey.

Shortly after the withdrawal of

OHIO GOVERNOR QUILTS IN FAVOR OF NEW YORKER

Stassen Also Withdraws And Paves Way For Unanimous Choice

Governor Bricker, Wendell Willkie sent a telegram of congratulation to Governor Dewey in New York, indicating that he will throw his support behind his candidacy and will accept the GOP platform despite objection to the planks dealing with international affairs.

Governor Dewey left New York by plane in the early afternoon and will address the convention tonight.

Roll of the states started at 1:45 and it was a Dewey stampede.

Dewey Nominated

Gov. Dewey was placed in nomination as the man "to make the American people once more masters of their own household."

This was the keynote of the speech of Gov. Dwight Griswold, of Nebraska, in putting the New Yorker's name before the 1,059 delegates to the 23rd national GOP assembly.

His was the first nominating speech. Griswold's speech was a caustic criticism of the Roosevelt administration and emphasized the achievements in public life of the man the convention picked as its standard bearer in the historic 1944 presidential campaign.

"We are here to restore the presidency of the United States to the American people," he said. "We are here to bring Washington, D. C., back into the union. We are here to make the American people once more masters in their own household. For that job we have the means and we have the man."

The Nebraska told the convention that "the American people are worried."

Urges GOP Victory

"The American people want a Republican victory in November, not for the sake of the party, but for the good of the nation," he declared. "They want youth instead of decadence, vigor instead of cynicism, integrity instead of double-dealing, seriousness instead of flippancy, faith instead of defeatism."

"In short, the American people want a leadership which can master their difficulties and revive their hope. The Republican party can furnish that leadership and I know whereof I speak."

Vehicles Chained

"There are now 26 Republican wartime governors. In these states, the people did not change horses, they changed vehicles. For times like these and in a stream like this, transportation by horse is not good enough. The American people have common sense. They have been around. When they want to go places, when they want to get ashore quickly, trust them to get off the horse and take a speedboat."

Griswold told the convention how the Republican governors of the nation are working in harmony and that their planning is "characteristic of this wartime Republican party."

"The best proof of what leadership will do for the nation can be found in what leadership (the governors) has done for the states," he said. "They know—the Republican party knows the value of team work. Republican leadership will restore team work to the nation."

Griswold then began his outline of the abilities and achievements of Governor Dewey, emphasizing that he "came up the hard way."

Hoover Talks

Former President Herbert Hoover, won an ovation from the Republican convention in a speech demanding a change in the national administration to preserve American freedom. The delegates accorded Hoover one of the new demonstrations of this convention last night when he declared: "only by a change in administration will soldiers find freedom preserved at home."

For a moment they forgot the heat and lassitude of their "harmony" meeting and rose shouting their approval.

A similar theme, from the woman's viewpoint, was offered by Rep. Clare Booth Luce of Connecticut who spoke following Hoover. Mrs. Luce, the blonde play-writing-congresswoman and turner of sharp phrases, denounced Democratic acts which she said are "distorting our Democracy into a dictatorial bumble-dum."

Attacks New Deal

Hoover delivered a stinging attack against New Deal diplomatic policies, declaring President Roosevelt should stay home and let Secretary of State Cordell Hull do the talking with America's Allies on political matters.

"Under our institutions and our public opinion," he said, "negotiation in political matters with our Allies should be conducted by secretaries of state."

"The President of the United States is far more influential delivering considered judgments from the White House. The voice from that pulpit is far more potent than any beguilement in private conversations in some foreign city, or any personal power diplomacy."

"President Wilson also had a 'great design' most of which was lost by the blandishments and pressures of personal negotiation. Every thinking American views with great apprehension a repetition of 1919. America needs a change in administration to get out of personal power diplomacy."

Gives Security Plan

The solemn-spoken Hoover, who got off to an unfortunate start before a dead microphone which until replaced failed to carry his voice to the delegates, proposed that any postwar security organization have a general assembly with three divisions—one for Europe, one for Asia and one for the Western Hemisphere.

He declared himself against "any compromise with Hitler or Tojo." And he had this to say about the Teheran conference and the Atlantic charter:

Certainly the Atlantic charter has been sent to the hospital for major amputations of freedom among nations. The American people deserve a much fuller exposition of this great design."

Mrs. Luce demanded a change in administration for G. I. Joe who is returning from the wars, and for "G. I. Jim who has died on the battlefields." The Republicans are choosing a president "who need not apologize for the past."

The Democrats who meet in Chicago next month must be content with "apology and explanation," she said.

Tariff Policy Altered

The Republican party through its platform modified its historic high tariff policy with a warning to the world to "play fair" or face a trade war.

This was the interpretation of the foreign trade plank given by its makers, who said the primary aim was to commit the party not only to political cooperation to prevent war but to economic cooperation to raise the world standard of living.

The platform emphasized that the party favors joining "in every cooperative effort to remove unnecessary and destructive barriers to international trade."

This, it was explained, carried a warning to Great Britain to modify her "empire preference" system of trading together with subsidizing of foreign trade by other nations.

The foreign trade plank, largely the work of former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, was regarded as committing the party to a new policy in world affairs.

Platform Hailed

Adopted by acclamation after widespread circulation of "phony" rumors of a governors' revolt, the platform was hailed by party leaders as "the best, soundest and most progressive we have had."

Both internationalists and nationalists said they were satisfied by the plank declaring for world collaboration with safeguards for retention of American sovereignty.

"I really think it is the best platform we have ever had," said Gov. Landon, who ran on one in 1936 which he modified by telegram.

Gov. Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, urged its unanimous adoption, a staunch internationalist. Gov. Edge by his action answered the criticism of Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 standard bearer.

"Forward Steps"

"This platform represents a forward step toward an establishment to maintain security and peace," said Sen. Warren Austin, of Vermont.

Sen. C. Wayland Brooks, of Illinois, a strong nationalist, said the platform safeguards the nation against being plunged into a world state.

"We confine ourselves at all times to strictly constitutional provisions in all our dealings with other nations in post-war collaboration," he said.

Asked whether so-called internationalists or nationalists won a victory in the platform draft, Gov. Landon replied:

"Neither."

The platform declared for full employment through private enterprise, an expanded social security system, retention of states rights, and called for a "square deal for labor and agriculture."

The platform condemned freezing of wage rates at arbitrary levels, approved laws protecting labor and charged the New Deal with using labor disputes to put into effect financial and economic theories.

Farmers were promised freedom from regimentation, together with "an American market price to the American farmer."

Lower taxation after the war was urged, together with a constitutional amendment limiting the president to two terms.

A strong declaration was made to battle racial or religious prejudice. A permanent fair employment practice commission was promised the Negroes, together with anti-lynching legislation and abolition of the poll tax.

A ringing declaration in favor of free press and radio was adopted.

BEER BUSINESS BOOMS AFTER INSULT TO GOP

CHICAGO, June 28—William Sianis, who runs a saloon across the street from the Chicago stadium where the Republicans are holding their national convention, had a good laugh today at the bit of salesmanship he put over on the conventioners.

Business was not so hot, though the weather was, and Billy painted himself a sign which he put in the front window. It said:

"No Republicans allowed."

Back of the bar he put another sign, reading:

"No drinks served Republicans."

In practically no time at all the bar was lined with irate delegates wearing Dewey, Bricker and Stassen buttons and demanding service. It kept Sianis and his staff of willing helpers busy appeasing the thirst of the customers.

When the first group filed out, Billy put in a hurry-up order to the brewery.

"Business never was better," he said.

To the People of this Community

Here's good advice from a friend, neighbor and great fighting man, Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop of Canada. He says:

"There is no sense in spending a lot of time making great and wonderful blue prints for a dream house only to find you have no foundation when you come to build it."

Now is the time to build the foundation for the life you want when the "cease fire" order comes on the battlefields. Every War Bond you own is a stone in that foundation. Acquire enough War Bonds and you will have a foundation which will grow in strength with the years and which no economic wind can shake.

In New York they have a campaign built around the theme, "The War Bond Grows with the Baby." It's a good slogan. It is just as good and just as true when applied to grownups.

We feel free to mention this self-interest War Bond theme only because we know YOU are not one of the individuals who need to be reminded that the main purpose of the Fifth War Loan is to "back the attack—buy more than before."

WAR PLANT CUTS FORCE AND 800 WORKERS QUIT

NEW YORK, June 28—Production of precision instruments for the Navy was halted today by a work stoppage involving approximately 800 employees of two New York plants of the Bendix Aviation Corporation.

Company officials said they had not heard of any reason why the men had not reported for work, but leaders of Local 853, United Automobile Workers of America, CIO, said the employees must quit work to air their grievances, relating particularly to the company's lay off of about 300 workers in the last five weeks.

The employees, who plan to meet today, already had a session in which they appealed by resolution to President Roosevelt to take over the plant for operation by the Navy.

MARK CRAWFORD DIES IN ACTION, AGAINST AXIS

Mark Crawford, electrician third class, U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford of Walnut street, was killed in action, his parents were notified Wednesday by the War Department.

Mark was a junior in the Circleville high school when he enlisted in the navy, following into service his brother, Jack and he was in turn followed by another brother, Walter.

Besides his parents, and two brothers in the service, he is survived by three brothers and a sister at home. The brothers are George, David and Kenneth and the sister Marilyn.

Two letters were received from Mark by his parents last week, both of which had been written before the invasion. No word has been received from Walter, who is a naval gunner on a merchant ship.

The telegram which his parents received gave no evidence of the location or manner of their son's death.

NAZI DEFENSES TOTTER BEFORE RED ONSLAUGHT

More Than 20,000 German Corpses Litter Fields In Vitebsk Area

Later, the official Soviet communiqué described the complete elimination of five Nazi divisions which had been encircled southwest of captured Vitebsk. "Repeated" enemy attempts to break out of the iron ring were smashed time and again by powerful artillery and mortar fire of the Russians.

More than 20,000 German corpses littered the battlefield, when upwards of 10,000 Nazi officers and men finally accepted the Soviet ultimatum and surrendered. The communiqué stressed that the 10,000 figure was but the result of a hasty, "preliminary" count—indicating it may be revised sharply upward.

The encircled grouping had consisted of four German infantry divisions and one airforce division.

Trap Clamped

The new Red Army trap was clamped on five more Nazi divisions when Soviet columns advancing in the Bobruisk broke through into the sector north of Bobruisk and "by an impetuous thrust" linked up with units "carry out an enveloping thrust from the east."

Once having fixed this trap about the enemy forces, Russian infantry, armored and artillery troops poured a withering fire into the German ranks and hasty culmination of "annihilation battle" was expected. At least 8,000 Nazis were slain in a single day.

During the course of operations, the communiqué said, the Russians severed the Bobruisk-Minsk railway and highway, thus virtually cutting off the town itself. The Soviets then closed on Bobruisk and "launched operations on the outskirts of the town."

Before breaking into Mogilev, central pivot of the Fatherland line, the Russians fought their way across the upper Dnepr north and south of the city in an advance that engulfed more than 300 towns and villages. The eastern bank of the stream was reached along the whole Orsha-Mogilev-Brykhov line.

Soviet tanks and infantry, developing their success, broke into the town from the south, east and north and engaged the enemy garrison in bitter street fighting.

On the Finnish front, meanwhile, Red Army troops fought their way forward to capture 31 additional planes in Karelia beyond the overrun Svir river between lakes Onega and Ladoga. Included in the communities occupied was the district center of Sultozero.

Typical reaction in Sweden to the move is that expressed by an editorial appearing in the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter, which first announced the Nazi troops were arriving in Helsinki.

As we pray for Their Safety—

Let us send Our Dollars to FIGHT with them—in the 5TH War Loan Drive!

Pray for them, America.

Pray for their safety in this fateful hour. Pray for Victory in their bitter, bloody fight for freedom. Pray for their return to us as soon as may be.

A long, hard road lies ahead. There will be many a desperate, heart-breaking day before they reach the end of that road. And many a white cross will mark its course through the tortured battlefields of Europe.

Would that we could do something to help our gallant fighting men in their hour of need! Would that we could do something to express the gratitude in our hearts for the sacrifices they are making for us.

Do something? We can do something. Each and every one of us, right now, can join the fight by purchasing extra War Bonds during the 5th War Loan. Let us support this drive as we have never done before. Let us show our loved ones over there that we are with them heart and soul. Let them know that we are backing them to the limit—to our last dollar.

Yes, to our last dollar. No matter what sacrifices we have to make, let us all invest in War Bonds now—more and more War Bonds—until we have poured out the might of America in overwhelming measure. Now, as never before, your country looks to you.

THE CAPITAL OF LABOR

TIME was when people always spoke of "Capital and Labor" as naturally opposing forces. Now it's apt to be "Labor and Management". There are several possible reasons, but an important one may be that the laborer himself has in so many instances become a capitalist. He owns his home. He has bonds. Perhaps he has stock in the company he works for. Capital is not merely money—loose green dollars floating around for current expenses. It isn't currency in safe deposit boxes, sterile, doing no good. Capital is the savings left over after current expenses are paid, put together with other people's savings and invested in new or expanding business. It's fresh, new food, grown yesterday, picked today, the surplus over today's meals used to provide strength and new blood for tomorrow.

There's an interesting parable in the New Testament about this. Three men have equal sums of money to be held during a master's absence. One man squanders his and has nothing but debt to show for it. One wraps his in cloth and buries it. It's there, like hoarded currency, but no good to anyone. The third lends his, works with it and has a larger sum to produce at the showdown. He is praised.

When people buy government bonds they are wisely investing their capital. When they deposit money in the bank, their capital is invested by lending to other people to build homes or businesses with. People who hoard merely hoard fear and trouble. Those who cash bonds and blow in the money will be in debt, perhaps disaster, on the first rainy day. Buy bonds and hold them—every American his own capitalist.

DANGEROUS LIBRARIES

PUBLIC libraries have not generally been considered dangerous places to frequent. In Holland, however, they have become Nazi traps. The underground Dutch newspaper has warned students to stay away because the Gestapo is always searching through registration cards for suspects. When they come to return books, they are seized and sent to concentration camps.

A special reason for students to use the libraries is because no one is allowed to attend a Dutch university without signing a declaration of obedience to the Nazis. The great majority positively refused, so are now being hunted down by the Gestapo. They are trying to continue their studies, hence their need to consult the libraries.

How all values have been turned topsy-turvy since Hitler came to power.

It's a hard life, but those boys who just left school the other day are putting the world in order.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

DEWEY FORCES

CHICAGO—Here is how carefully the Dewey boys are playing their cards to win. Long before they came to Chicago, they had dumped $12,000 into California's different Congressional districts, as against only $3,000 in all the rest of the U. S. A.

Also, long before they came to Chicago, they had put California's big amiable Governor Earl Warren very much on the spot. To win, they figure they must carry California. A Dewey-Warren ticket, they figure, will be a cinch.

But the more they have talked Warren for Vice President, the more skittish privately the Governor has become. The heavy Democratic vote in recent California primaries, plus the defeat of his friends that, should he run for Vice President and fail to carry his own state, he would be politically washed up.

In the 1916 wartime election, Charles Evans Hughes went to bed thinking he had won California and was President-elect of the U. S. A. Next a.m., he woke to find that he had lost California and the Presidency.

In this wartime election, Dewey and GOP strategists are not going to bed with false illusions. Already they are pumping money into the Golden State.

Here is the list of donations the GOP Congressional campaign committee has pumped into California districts.

Representative Rolph, San Francisco, $1,000; Rep. J. Leroy Johnson, Stockton, $1,000; Rep. Albert Carter, Oakland, $1,000; Rep. John Anderson, San Juan Bautista, $1,000; Rep. Bertrand Gearhart, Fresno, $1,000; Rep. Ward Johnson, Long Beach, $1,000; Rep. Carl Hinshaw, Pasadena, $1,000; Rep. John Phillips, Banning, $1,000; Rep. Norris Poulson, Los Angeles, $1,000; Jesse Mayo, Angels Camp, $1,000; Fred J. Hart, Salinas, $750; Chesley M. Walter, Oakland $750; George Faulkner, San Francisco, $500.

In contrast, only three other Congressional districts in the entire U. S. A. have received any GOP money, two in New York, one in Oklahoma.

NOTE—The dough for California came from about the same crowd which also shelled out heavily for Dewey—John D. Rockefeller, $3,000; Alfred Sloan of General Motors, $3,000; Mrs. Sloan, another $3,000; Jeremiah Milbank of Metropolitan Life, $2,000; C. B. Goodspeed of Chicago, $5,000.

BRICKER "TREASON"

TOM Dewey's loyal legions foamed furiously when they opened their mail the other morning to find their reprints of a most uncomplimentary article about their candidate, written by Richard Rovere in Harpers Magazine and entitled "The Man in the Blue Serge Suit."

Chief foamer was staunch, devoted Walter R. Suppes, delegate from Johnstown, Pa., who picked up the telephone and asked Harpers Magazine who had received permission to reprint "The Man in the Blue Serge Suit". Harpers replied that 5000 copies had just been mailed to the Democratic National Committee.

Whereupon irate delegate Suppes telegraphed Democratic national chairman Hannegan: "You tried to discredit and belittle Dewey at time when national convention is appraising candidates. Many

Got A Cold? Pain U.S. Takes Aspirin?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I SUPPOSE aspirin is the most widely used drug in the United States. Caffeine certainly rivals this universally and very probably ably surpasses it, but caffeine is used so much like a food that we hardly think of it as a drug. This increasing popularity of aspirin is not easy to explain. I know people who use it as a sleeping tablet and others who consider it a pepper-upper. Of course, it is constantly taken for colds, headaches, rheumatism, and muscular aching and then also on general principles.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

I have a letter which expresses the general state of opinion as follows: "Won't you write an article on aspirin? Many of us when we feel tired and nervous take one or two tablets with a coke or just water. Seems to fill the bill, but we would like to know whether there is any reason we should not do so."

Aspirin Usually Harmless

To answer the last question first, I do not know of any reason why aspirin should not be taken in any quantity. The only exception to this is that there are people who are definitely allergic to it, and it produces very severe symptoms in them. But they go into the allergic state on very small amounts and almost immediately after the aspirin has been swallowed.

I had one terrifying experience with a man to whom I gave some capsules containing two grains each of aspirin. He took one capsule as soon as he had got home and within five minutes his throat and tongue had swollen so that he nearly died of suffocation. I worked with him all night and the experience taught me that there is such a thing as sensitivity to aspirin. But, as was said, the reaction occurs when very small amounts are absorbed, and one can assume that if a person is able to take five grains of aspirin without harm, he will be able to take almost any amount.

One of my friends who strongly believes in the use of aspirin in arthritis gives as much as a hundred or two hundred grains a day for a period of several weeks without untoward symptoms. So I believe we may assume that for practical purposes it is harmless.

Action of Aspirin

Now as to its actions. It was introduced into medicine as a substitute for salicylic acid and sodium salicylate in rheumatism. Those preparations upset the stomach when given in large doses. It was claimed for aspirin that it would not do this. Chemically it is acetyl-salicylic acid. The salicylates are indicated primarily in acute inflammatory rheumatism. They reduce fever of any kind and have a selective action in stopping joint pains.

But they also relieve pain in general anywhere of any type, so aspirin is properly put into headache capsules, cold tablets, etc.

That is about as far as the science of pharmacology will go in recommendations for aspirin. As to its use as a sleep producer or nerve quietener there is no scientific evidence, but it is so generally used in this way and seems to get results so often that the ultra-scientific can hardly afford to scoff at such claims. Such popularity must have some foundation.

Of course, when my correspondent speaks of combining it with a coke and other things he is complicating the problem. Any form of caffeine beverage (and this includes most of our soft drinks) helps to dissipate that let down feeling. Besides caffeine is what is called synergistic with aspirin—and when taken in combination each augments the other's action. If you look at the label on any of the popular cold remedies you will find in most cases that aspirin and caffeine are both present.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

"Now, then," said Judge Newbold. "Let's have the rest of it, if you please!"—so frigidly that Pat turned cold as ice and tears appeared in the corners of her eyes.

"We went out together, Bill and I, last Saturday night. Bill said we oughtn't to be seen, maybe it wasn't legal or something, so we drove over to Slocum to a hot spot Bill knows, and—well, we've been there every night since. I said Jim was guilty, and Bill said sure, he thought so too—

"Your Honor," protested Judge Martin in a terrible voice, "I move—"

"Oh, you do!" said Judge Newbold. "Eli Martin, if your reputation weren't... You there!" he roared at the jurymen. "Ketcham! Number 71 Get up!"

The insurance broker tried to obey, half hoisted himself, fell back again, and finally made it. He stood there in the rear row of the jury box, swaying a little, as if the box were a canoe.

"William Ketcham," asked Judge Newbold, "have you spent every evening since last Saturday in the company of this young woman? Did you promise her to influence the rest of the jury?"

Ketcham chattered: "I didn't mean any harm, J-Judge—I didn't think I was doing wrong, Judge—I swear to you—"

"Take this man in custody," ordered Judge Newbold. "Balliff, station guards at the doors. There will be a five-minute recess. No one now present is to leave the courtroom!" And Judge Newbold groped for his chambers.

"That," said Mr. Queen while they waited, "is what comes of not locking juries in. It's also," he added to Miss Patricia Wright, "what comes of scatterbrained brats meddling in grown-up people's affairs!"

"Oh, Patty, how could you!" wept Hermione. "And that impossible Ketcham man, too! I warned you. You remember, John, how he used to pester Patty for dates?"

"I also remember," said John F. sternly, "where my old hairbrush is!"

"Look," asserted Pat in a low voice. "Jim was in a bad spot, wasn't he? All right! So I worked on Billy and he drank a lot and—Go ahead and I look at me as if I were wicked!" And Miss Wright began to cry. "Just the same, I did something none of you has been able to do—watch and see!"

"It's true," said Ellery hastily, "that we had nothing to look forward to but a conviction."

"If only..." began Nora, a great bright hope on her pale face. "Oh, Patty, you're mad, but I love you!"

"And is Carl's face red," blubbered Pat. "Thanks he's smart..."

"Yes," pointed out Mr. Queen dryly. "But look at Judge Martin's."

Old Eli Martin came over to Pat and said: "Patricia, you've placed me in the most embarrassing position. I don't care about that, or the ethics of your conduct, so much as I do about the fact that you probably haven't helped Jim's chances, you've hurt them. No matter what Newbold says or does—and he really hasn't any choice—everybody will know you did this deliberately, and it's bound to bounce back on Jim Haight."

And Lawyer Martin stalked away.

When court resumed some time later, Judge Newbold declared, "I wish to state that in all my years I have encountered no more flagrant example of civic irresponsibility."

"William Ketcham!" He transfixed Juror Number 7, who looked as if he were about to faint, with a stern and glittering eye. "Unfortunately, there is no statutory offense with which you can be charged, unless it can be shown that you have received property or value of some kind. For the time being, I order the Commissioner of Jurors to strike your name from the panel of jurors, and never will you be permitted to exercise your privilege of serving on a jury in this State."

Ketcham's expression said that he would gladly relinquish many more appreciated rights for the privilege of leaving the courtroom that very instant.

"Mr. Bradford—" Carter looked up, thin-lipped and black-angry—"you are requested to investigate the conduct of Patricia Wright with a view toward determining whether she willfully and deliberately sought to influence Juror Number 7. If such intention can be established, I ask you to draw an indictment charging Patricia Wright with the appropriate offense—"

"Your Honor," said Bradford in a low voice, "the only conceivable charge I can see would be corrupting a juror, and to establish corruption it seems to me necessary to show consideration—"

"Let's not get entangled, Mr. Bradford," said Judge Newbold coldly. "The woman is clearly guilty of bribery if she attempted to influence a juror improperly, whether she gave any consideration or not!"

"Now," he glared at Ketcham and Pat, and then at the jury. "A juror has been influenced in a manner prejudicial to the rights of the defendant to a fair trial."

"That leaves me no recourse but to declare People Against James Haight a mistrial. I do so declare, the jury is discharged with the apology and thanks of the Court, and the defendant is remanded to the custody of the Sheriff until the date for a new trial can be set."

"Court is adjourned!"

Following the mistrial, Wrightville buzzed and gossiped until the very ears of the little Buddha clock on Pat's dresser were ringing.

William Ketcham, by a curious inversion, became the town hero. The "boys" stopped him on street corners to slap his back. As confidence returned, he related some "details" of his relationship with Miss Patricia Wright on the critical nights in question which, when they reached Pat's ears by way of Carmel Pettigrew (who was phoning her "best friend" again), caused Pat to go downtown to Ketcham's office in the Bluefield Block, grasp him by the collar with the left hand and, with the right, slap his left cheek five times, leaving assorted marks.

Mr. Queen had accompanied Miss Wright on the punitive expedition and had stood by while she cleaned her reputation.

"If you don't watch out," murmured Ellery, "Carter Bradford will have another indictment to draw against you—this one for assault and battery."

"I'm just waiting," said Pat darkly. "But he won't. He knows better!"

And apparently Cart did know better, for nothing more was heard from him about Pat's part in the Ketcham affair.

Wrightsville prepared for the Easter holidays. Mr. Queen shut himself up in his quarters on the top floor of the Wright house, except for meals. Anyone looking in on him would have been puzzled. He was doing exactly nothing visible to the uninitiated eye.

Oh, yes. If you looked hard, you could see a mass of notes on his desk—scattered like leaves in autumn. And indeed the wind of Ellery's fury had scattered them so. They lay there discarded, and a mockery.

It was strange about Nora. She had stood up so gallantly under the stresses of the arrest and trial that everyone had begun taking her for granted. Even Hermione thought of nothing but Nora, and the proper care of the expectant mother; and there old Ludie was of infinitely more practical use.

But the pathology of the nervous system was so much Sanskrit to Ludie; and only two persons close to Nora suspected what was going to happen, and at least one of them was helpless to avert the catastrophe. That was Mr. Queen; and he could only wait and watch. The other was Dr. Willoughby, much of whose advice Nora ignored.

Nora went to pieces of a sudden. On Easter Sunday, just after the family returned from church, Nora was heard laughing in her bedroom. Pat, who was in her own room down the hall and was nearest, got there first, alarmed by a queer quality in Nora's laughter. She found her sister in a swollen heap on the floor, rocking, laughing her head off.

They all ran in then, managed to drag Nora onto the bed, and loosen her clothes while she laughed and laughed as if the tragedy of her life were the greatest joke in the world.

Ellery telephoned Dr. Willoughby, and set about with the assistance of Pat and Lola to arrest Nora's hysteria. By the time the doctor arrived, they had managed to stop the laughter, but Nora was shaking and white, and looked about her with frightened eyes.

"I can't—understand—it," she gasped. "I was—all right. Then—everything... Ooh, I hurt."

Dr. Willoughby checked them all away. He was in Nora's room for fifteen minutes. When he came out he said harshly: "She's got to be taken to the hospital. I'll arrange it myself."

The General Hospital was understaffed for the day, since it was Easter Sunday and a holiday. The ambulance did not arrive for three quarters of an hour.

"She's all right, Hermy," said John F.; but his face was gray.

When the ambulance finally came, Dr. Willoughby had Nora whisked out of the house and accompanied her in the ambulance.

They glimpsed Nora's face for an instant as she was carried downstairs on a stretcher. Mercifully, Hermione did not see that face; but Pat did, and she said to Ellery in flat horror: "She's scared to death! Oh, Ellery, do you think—"

"Let's be getting over to the hospital," said Ellery. And he drove the Wrights to that destination.

If Nominated, Dewey May Tour World, Says Gossip

Germany, Fearing Russia, To Surrender to Allies?

By HELEN ESSARY

WASHINGTON—Just to show you how the talk runs along the capital's rialto, people are saying that:

As soon as Governor Tom Dewey of New York is nominated for the presidency on the Republican ticket at the Chicago convention, he will start—immediately—for London and other welcoming points in Europe, Asia and Africa.

Already (this is the story) his passport awaits him signed and approved by Secretary Cordell Hull. The reason Governor Dewey is taking this rush trip is to acquaint himself with the foreign situation at first hand, and to be able to say to the voting population of the United States of America:

"I also know about the problems that confront us abroad. I've been places, too!"

It is reported that when Mr. Roosevelt was told of his presidential rival's touring plan, he just reached for another cigarette, fitted it snugly into the famous holder, struck a match, lit the cigarette and then stared awhile at the ceiling.

● ANOTHER FAR-FETCHED PIECE OF WASHINGTON GOSSIP insists that the reason the Allied troops have got as far inland in France as they have, is because the Germans are anxious to end the war with the United States and Britain as quickly as possible and are not putting up the expected resistance.

The reason for this possible surrender is Germany's sharp fear of Russia. Germany, so the gossip goes, actually wants a quick peace with the Americans and British so that she may have their help in the struggle with Russia.

Just how this theory works out I cannot understand.

● THERE ARE SO MANY THINGS about international relations in this war that I cannot understand. For example, how can you explain this vicious circle:

Finland pays her debt to the United States,

The United States, an ally of Russia, may be using some of Finland's money to aid Russia, who is fighting Finland.

Japan is the bitter enemy of the United States. But Russia, the ally of the United States in the war against Germany, has not declared war against Japan and is openly consorting with the Japs. At least we've given up the childish talk that the preservation of democracy is the reason for this war. Here is one way of honesty.

● I DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT the Washington of the moment that pleases me more than the sight of the familiar request of "The director general and the assistant director of the Pan-American Union for the honor of your presence at a concert of music of the Americas on the esplanade of the Pan-American Union..."

Ever since I have lived in Washington—and it's been a long time now—such invitations have come from the Pan-American Union. Wars and presidents and Congresses have hustled in and crept out, but the Pan-American converts go on undisturbed, forever.

The Washington home of the Pan-American Union delights me. It is where the Americas meet in an atmosphere of romance and white marble. I don't intend to ramble on this way about a public building but then the Pan-American building has a personality agreeable to think about.

As you go up the broad marble stairs, through the bronze gate to the vestibule with the arched ceiling supported by black marble pilasters and on to the patio where orange and green macaws call from palm trees and the mystic figures of Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney's fountain stand in the spray of softly illuminated water, you forget the wretched war is killing hundreds of thousands of brave young men.

You think of elegant leisure and beauty, and vivid flowers and sunshine. And the music which the director of the Union regularly asks you and about a thousand other guests to listen

You think you are in a royal palace when you cross the Pan-American Union's great Hall of the Americas. At night, light sparkles from chandeliers Versailles would have coveted. In the formal garden of the Union a sad god of the Aztecs presides over a water lily pool. Beyond the pool, in a pale blue light, is a loggia built of bits of colored tile made by Indians who lived in Latin America long before Columbus crossed the Atlantic, or Hitler ever waxed a weak mus-lache.

STURDY BODIES!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices
in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people, especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red blood.

A growing person who is operating on a 45 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped. In such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or focal infection, if they exist, must be corrected. Tissue foods must be digested and rich, red-blood must be present to build sturdy bodies. SSS Tonic is especially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and repair and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain a keen appetite . . . firm flesh . . . body energy . . . mental alertness!

Build Sturdy Health

Have a Coca-Cola = He's coming home tomorrow

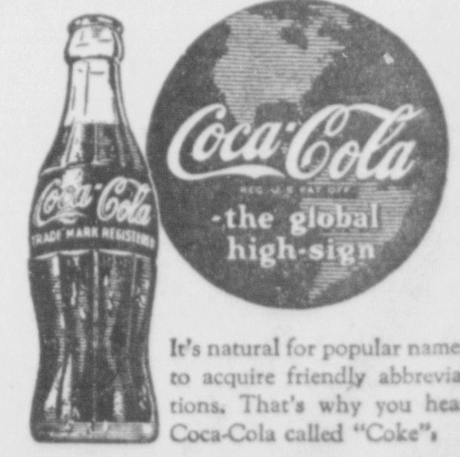

... preparing to welcome a returning soldier

When your fighting man returns home, it's the simple joys he seeks . . . reunion with his family . . . moments in the living room . . . a snack and refreshment in the old familiar kitchen . . . and ice-cold "Coke". So remember to keep some of his favorite snacks and have ice-cold Coca-Cola in the refrigerator. He'll respond as always to the invitation Have a "Coke". In camp or home town, the pause that refreshes is a symbol of a friendly way of living.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON

delegates are resentful at this unsponsored and anonymous attack through the mails on Dewey. Persons who took this means to injure his selection in Chicago over the 2,000 Republican delegates who received this anonymous mail an explanation and apology. "Democratic National Committee did obtain reprints of Harpers article for distribution among Democratic party workers. But has not yet made this distribution, as reprints arrived here only this morning. We get it from authoritative Republican sources that your inquiry should be more properly directed to Governor Bricker's headquarters." Since then, staunch, loyal Deweyites have been frothing at the Brickettes.

VICE PRESIDENTIAL MERRY-GO-ROUND

U. S. Chamber's Eric Johnston is the only Vice Presidential candidate running his campaign from outside the U. S. A. . . In faroff Russia, Johnston, being received by Stalin, talking business with Molotov, is making a tremendous impression on the powers-that-be at this convention. . . They reason the GOP may need some one with a strong internationalist record to offset isolationist charges against Dewey in the fall. . . Johnston has plenty of supporters, a great flair for publicity, is a super-salesman. . . He got his start as a house-to-house vacuum-cleaner salesman after the last war, knows how to put his foot in the door, keep it there and sell himself. . . In addition to his job as President of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Johnston runs a big electrical contracting company and has three other booming war businesses. . . Born in the District of Columbia, he is at home there.

DETTY FUNERAL

Funeral services were conducted in Chillicothe, Tuesday for Samuel Lee Detty, three and one half year old son of the Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Detty, of Washington, C. H., who died at his home there Saturday. He is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Conrad of Circleville. A brother, James, aged 9 years was drowned two months ago. Besides his parents, four brothers and three sisters also survive. A brother, Paul Detty, seaman first class is stationed at Neville hospital, Norfolk, Va.

sired six children, who have turned the staid old Governor's Mansion in Sacramento on its ear. It now reverberates to the noise of the eight Warrens busily enjoying the fruits of life in sunny California. . . Warren has always run as a non-partisan candidate, entered on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. Herbert Hoover likes Warren, but doesn't think he is ripe to be a Presidential candidate. . . Warren plays his politics straight, with no special twists. As a middle-of-the-roader, he has won a lot of Democratic votes. . . Warren has made a plea for labor support, but left-winged AFL and CIO leaders on the West Coast are very coy about the Governor, using him, being used by him, but never committing themselves to Warren's support.

Former Governor Stassen's backers are happy about the way things are going. . . They're not going home saddened even if their man shows little strength. . . Actually, Stassen's backers are aiming for '48, after their hero comes home from war service and the soldiers and sailors of this war start voting in earnest. . . They figure Dewey has to make it now or fold his tent permanently. . . Stassen has an air-tight Minnesota delegation behind him, made plenty of friends in Nebraska, the Dakotas, Kansas, Illinois and Wisconsin before getting into uniform. . . Stassen has seen plenty of action as flag secretary to Admiral Halsey, should see plenty more as action against Japan is stepped up.

BREWERS PULL SEVEN GAMES UP ON BIRDS

By International News Service
The Milwaukee Brewers today pulled away to a comfortable seven game league lead by virtue of a thirteen inning 3 to 2 triumph over the Columbus Red Birds. The defeat dropped the Red Birds into a second-place deadlock with Toledo.
Brewer center fielder Ed Lesly accounted for all three Milwaukee tallies as he singled two mates across in the ninth inning to deaden the score at two-all and then he singled across Heinz Becker in the thirteenth inning with the winning tally.
Lesly's timely hit was off Stan Partenheimer, who relieved Kenny Burkhardt in the tenth inning. Relief hurler Owen Scheetz was credited with his fifth triumph of the season.
The Toledo Mud Hens walloped the Kansas City Blues, 10 to 3, for their fifth straight triumph and a clean sweep of the four game series. Bill Seimsoth, the winning hurler, limited the Blues to six scattered safeties as Toledo pulled into a second-place tie with the Red Birds. Elmer Singleton was tabbed with the defeat.
Minneapolis hitting had a field day at the expense of three Louisville hurlers, chalking up 21 hits and 19 runs. The final score was 19 to 3 with Minneapolis out in front all the way. Dick Callahan, the New Orleans high school youth was charged with the defeat. Ernie Hogsett was credited with the win.
St. Paul quelled an eighth inning Indianapolis rally to defeat the Indians, 5 to 4. Both teams used two hurlers with Buker the winning hurler and Woodrow Rich the loser.

ROOSE TO ATTEND OHIO CLERKS, TRUSTEES MEET
Harry T. Roose, president of the Pickaway County Township Trustees and Clerks Association will attend the annual Summer convention in Columbus Thursday and Friday of Ohio clerks and trustees. Both Democratic and Republican nominees for the office of the Governor of Ohio will be speakers at the conference. Mayor Stewart of Cincinnati speaking in the morning session, Thursday while the afternoon session will be addressed by Mayor Lausche of Cleveland.

An exhibition of firefighting equipment will be held at the Scioto river bank one block west of the conference headquarters from 4 to 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The Friday morning session will be devoted to routine business and a discussion on the care of township cemeteries. More than 1800 burial grounds in the State of Ohio are under supervision of township trustees.

ART DONOVAN ASKS $25,000 FILM DAMAGES

NEW YORK, June 28—Arthur Donovan, the fight referee today asked $25,000 damages from the Stadium Pictures Corp., for depicting him in a "foolish, unnatural and undignified manner." Donovan objected to the "shots" of him included in the motion picture, "Kings of the Ring," showing the history of boxing for the last 50 years. Donovan claimed slow motion scenes in the picture made him look ridiculous and held him up to public contempt, causing him to suffer "a great anxiety of mind, humiliation and mortification."

33—Lead-Throwing Plays

MANY combinations of cards are more productive in the long run if the opponents lead to them than if you lead them yourself. Sometimes you are reasonably sure that a hostile high card is located just where you don't want it to be, and on other occasions you are in doubt and would rather not have to make a guess which might prove incorrect. In these, and some other cases, you can sometimes "pass the buck" by throwing the lead to an opponent and making him do for you that which you cannot do so well for yourself.

The simplest form of lead-throwing play is that in which an opponent is obliged to lead right into your tenace. Suppose play for a No Trump contract reached the stage where there were the only remaining cards, and you had to get two tricks to make your contract:

K 5 N E 10 3
Q 9 S 9
A Q J

If you had the lead in dummy and tried the heart finesse, it would fail, and you would get only one trick. But if you led the diamond, West would have to win it and then lead a heart, giving you two tricks.

That kind of "end-play" as many call it, will work at either No Trump or suit contracts when conditions are right. Another, which works only in suit play, is this:

Q 9 N E 10 3
6 S 10 3
A J 8
J

If those cards finish play for a spade contract, you apparently must lose two tricks, a heart and a diamond. But if you lead a diamond, you will get two tricks, losing only one. West must win the trick. Then, when he returns a diamond or club, you can trump it in the North while discarding your heart. This "ruff and discard" play has given you a trick which offhand seemed impossible to take.

Sometimes the chance to combine those plays will arrive, as in this case:

Q 9 N E 10 3
6 S 10 3
A J 8
J

With spades as trumps and the necessity of taking three tricks, you can do it in only one way, by leading a diamond to West. If he returns a club, you get two tricks in that suit. If he returns a diamond, you can discard a heart from your hand while ruffing in the dummy, and thus make sure of three tricks.

There are many variations of those plays. Notice that the first general type necessitates your first getting the opponent out of all suits except the one you want him to lead to you. With the second, you must eliminate other suits from your own hand and dummy, so that you are prepared to ruff his return in one hand while discarding from the other. The preliminary "stripping" is as important as the ultimate play itself.

Sometimes the first type can be worked when only one suit is left in all hands. If you have the A-J-10, and lead toward it, putting in the J or 10, you are certain of two tricks when the suit is returned. Combinations which are much better if led to you are those like a K-10-2 opposite an A-J-3. If the opponents lead it, you are sure to capture the queen. If you have an A-10-2 opposite a K-9-3, and you make one of them lead it, you get three tricks if the missing honors are split and you finesse against the second one.

Quiet Independence Day in County

CITY OFFERING NO PROGRAM FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Picnics, Family Gatherings Scheduled In Place Of Regular Celebrations

Next week Circleville and Pickaway county will celebrate the quietest Fourth of July in all history. No plans have been made for a celebration anywhere in the county. Even Ashville has called off arrangements for its big annual celebration, although a dance will be held in the community park just north of Ashville beginning at 9 o'clock on the night of the Fourth. Music will be provided by Orlan Hines' orchestra. It is open to the public.

Ever since 1929 Ashville has held a Fourth of July celebration which drew crowds from all directions. In the last few years the crowds have been estimated at about 10,000. The celebration consisted of entertainment started with a parade in the downtown section of the village and came to a climax with a fireworks display without equal in central Ohio.

Ashville dispensed with the celebration in 1942, after Pearl Harbor when so many of the boys from the community joined the Armed Forces. It was decided then there would be no further celebration until after the war.

Five Points will dedicate its honor roll of men in service July 2, but no celebration of the Fourth has been planned in that community.

Family picnics and small family gatherings will be the order of the day. Stores in Circleville and all county and city offices will be closed.

The Pickaway county War Price and Ration Board has asked that citizens refrain from driving on the Fourth if at all possible.

In Circleville picnic groups are invited to use Ted Lewis park. Facilities have been provided for such occasions.

In keeping with the occasion and in order to conserve newsprint The Herald will not publish on the Fourth.

ABNER GRIFFEY GETS MEDAL AS JAP FIGHTER

Sergeant Abner Griffey, former employe of The Circleville Herald, who recently returned from overseas after seeing more than two years' service in Australia, New Caledonia, Guadalcanal, Fiji Islands and on Bougainville and is now stationed at Camp Butner, N. C., awaiting assignment, has been notified that he was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in action.

The citation which accompanied the notification read, "Sergeant Abner Griffey, 35031948, Field Artillery, United States Army, for meritorious service in action on Guadalcanal, Solomon Islands, from December 8, 1942, to February 9, 1943, on several occasions with complete disregard for his own safety, proceeded alone over treacherous terrain, which was within range of enemy small arms fire, to repair and maintain communications. His work contributed materially to the success of the artillery fire missions."

Abner says, "At the time I did those things I didn't give them much thought, but it was an order not to travel alone. Sometimes a person does crazy things." Few of his experiences in battle were recounted by Griffey when he was home on furlough. He preferred discussing the feeling of soldiers over there when they got hold of an American newspaper and read about strikes and walkouts. He said nobody in the United States fully realizes just how a fellow in a fox hole does feel when he realizes that his work is not being appreciated.

ASHVILLE

Mrs. James Ferrar of New York City was a guest of Mrs. Seymour Millar Sunday and Monday.

Marilyn Hedges entertained the members of the Orlan Hines' band Monday evening at her home.

No plans for any type of celebration are being considered for July Fourth in Ashville. However, there will be a dance in the Community Park on the evening of the Fourth.

The regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias will be held Wednesday in the lodge hall, beginning at 8:30 p. m.

Jack Irwin visited with Billy Speakman Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Ward and D. H. Ebert visited in Columbus Sunday.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

Mrs. Bertha K. Ludford, East Mound street, was removed Tuesday from her home to the residence of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Fuller, of 216 West Mound street.

A marriage license was issued Tuesday to John Ralph Hoffhines, 24, Ashville, soldier, and Ruth Ivorins Hedges, Tarlton. The Rev. F. D. Fudge, Ashville, was the officiating minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan Payne, Circleville route 4, are parents of a daughter born Tuesday in Berger hospital.

Norman Schubert, 154 West Main street, was released Tuesday from Berger hospital where he was receiving treatment for a foot injury.

The Auxiliary deputies of the Pickaway county sheriff's department will meet Thursday, June 29, at 8:30 p. m. at the Betz restaurant for an important business session. Entertainment will be provided and all members are asked to be present.

Mrs. Clydus Leist, East Mound street, and Mrs. Marvin Cupp, Tarlton, were in Chillicothe Tuesday, attending funeral services for Maxwell Stevens.

DALE BOSTWICK SLAIN FIGHTING JAPS IN BURMA

Sergeant Dale Bostwick, 26, former resident of Stoutsville and son of Mrs. Clyde Huffer of that village, was killed in action June 6 at Myitkyina, Burma, where he was serving as an infantry instructor in jungle tactics, his family has been informed.

Sergeant Bostwick attended school in Stoutsville, but was graduated from North High school, Columbus, and was employed at the Pennsylvania Railroad shops prior to his enlistment in the Army in October, 1940. He went overseas for the first time with the 37th Division. He returned to the United States in September, 1943, only 42 days after participating in the battle of Munda and was assigned to officers candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga., from which he resigned and was later sent to Camp Claiborne, La., as an instructor in jungle tactics.

Last November Sgt. Bostwick was awarded the Soldier's Medal, seventh highest Army award for extricating a wounded pilot from a burning airplane after a crash landing in New Guinea. He had been in the Burma theatre since May.

Besides his mother he is also survived by his step-father, Clyde Huffer, Stoutsville, a brother, Private First Class Bruce Bostwick, stationed at Cincinnati with the military police, and a sister, Mrs. Jane Knipfer of Columbus. His maternal grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wray, 94 years of age, resides in Columbus and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Theda Asher, lives near Stoutsville.

T COUPONS FOR TRUCKS EXPIRE NEXT FRIDAY

"T" coupons for the second quarter will expire June 30, truck owners and operators were warned Tuesday, and it is imperative that they apply for their third quarter ration at the War Price and Rationing before that date. Certificates of war necessity will be cancelled if this is not done.

Certificates should be taken to the office on West High street as soon as possible together with means of identification of the owner or applicant such as driver's license or certificates of title.
